He also finished second to Champion Troch in both the double race and the Zone championship on 16-yard singles and ahead of Troch on handicap targets.

Becker was named by the Portland Oregonian, which published his photograph, as the country's best all-around shot. Over 100 shooters from Oregon, Washington, British Columbia, Montana, Idaho, Utah and California were in attendance. ## DRY WEATHER HELPS SUGAR BEET CROPS

There was but little rain of importance in any part of Utah during the week ending July 15, while the state was subjected to unusually high temperature, according to the weekly summary of weather, crop and range conditions, issued yesterday by the United States weather bureau.

These conditions have been favorable to sugar beet crops that are ripening, alfalfa and field crops generally. There is, however, a great need for rain in the dry farming sections and on the grazing ranges, meadows and highways.

Grazing ranges are still fairly good and livestock is doing well generally. Spring wheat is suffering in several sections from the dry weather. The first alfalfa harvest has been completed generally and the second crop is reported as doing well, except that grasshoppers are doing some damage locally. Grain is ripening generally and the harvest is beginning in Bear River and Cache valleys.

All irrigated crops are doing well in the Salt Lake valley. The fruit crop is in excellent condition on Maple bench, Utah county. The grain harvest is progressing at Oak City, but the dry land wheat crop is short because of the droughty conditions.

Irrigated crops are doing well at Manila, but dry land wheat crops are suffering. Dry land crops are in a critical condition at Modena for want of rain. Livestock is suffering in the Kanab section for want of water. La Sal mountain ranges need rain. Grasshoppers are doing some damage to the second alfalfa crop at Price. The alfalfa seed, vegetable and honey crops are good at Duchesne.
